

Start of the first cohort of the new master program: International Triple Degree

In August 2021, the first cohort of the new management studies master program International Triple Degree started their first semester at the campus of Loyola University New Orleans. The students received a warm welcome from the three initiators of the new degree program and were clearly delighted that, after phases of virtual classes due to the pandemic, face-to-face events are now being offered again. The innovative training concept of the International Triple Degree relies on small groups, collaboration in international teams, and hands-on event formats such as case study seminars and project courses, which are oriented towards classic MBA programs. To kick off the program, the students were given a tour of the impressive campus in New Orleans, where the first modules will be completed. After their second semester of on-site attendance classes at SKEMA Business School in Paris, we will welcome the first cohort to Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München in summer 2022.

International Triple Degree in brief

In cooperation with Loyola University New Orleans and SKEMA Business School in Paris, Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München has launched the International Triple Degree program. At the start of the first semester, students – who completed their bachelor degrees in various subjects – are welcomed at Loyola University New Orleans. In the second semester, the cohort travels to the SKEMA campus in Paris before heading to Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München for the third semester. Graduates will receive the MBA degree from Loyola University New Orleans with the credits earned so far. Interested students then have the opportunity of additionally earning the Diplôme Grande École from SKEMA Business School Paris and the Master of Science in Business Administration from LMU Munich after completing an academic thesis in the final semester.
